COMMUNICATION SKILLS

I am an efficient team worker and a good communicator in interdisciplinary scientific environments. I acquired communication skills in over 15 years of involvement in research and editorial teams, activities within the museum environment, and through oral presentations at national and international scientific meetings.

ORGANISATIONAL SKILLS

I am very resourceful in organizing archaeological sites, individual and team research work, and museum activities. This is a result of extensive and constant on-site research and involvement in several complex archaeological research projects, museum exhibitions, and participation in and organization of international scientific conferences within my area of expertise. Nevertheless, I continuously develop my problem-solving, prioritization and time management skills as editor-in-chief of the Acta Musei Napocensis. Historica Journal of the National Museum of Transylvanian History.
